INTRODUCTION

The Sadie Warner Frazer Papers (1894-1974) are centered around Sadie Warner Frazer (1885-1974), Nashville area history contributor and genealogist, her husband George Augustine Frazer (1879-1962), a retired Army Colonel and attorney for the old Nashville Railway and Light Company, and their four children: Percy Warner Frazer (1906-1999), George Preston Frazer (1908-2003), Margaret Lindsley (Frazer) Rose (1911-1986), and Mary Washington Frazer (1914-1974). The Sadie Warner Frazer Papers were gifts of Mrs. Margaret Frazer Rose, Falls Church, Virginia, through the agency of Dr. Herschel Gower, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee.

The materials in this finding aid measure 39.9 linear feet. There are no restrictions on the materials. Single photocopies of unpublished writings in the Sadie Warner Frazer Papers may be made for purposes of scholarly research.
SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Sadie Warner Frazer Papers, containing approximately 8,200 items, span the period 1894-1974. The collection is composed of accounts (bank and business), annuals (school), booklets, cards, certificates, clippings, correspondence, diaries, genealogical data, journals, legal documents, military records, newspapers, notebooks, obituaries, photo albums and photographs, programs, reminiscences, school records, scrapbooks, wills, writings and several miscellaneous items.

About 7,600 items of the collection consists of family correspondence. The bulk of the family correspondence is composed of letters written between George and Sadie (Warner) Frazer and between Colonel and Mrs. Frazer and their children, Percy Warner, George Preston, Margaret (Frazer) Rose and Mary.

The letters of Colonel and Mrs. Frazer to their relatives while the Frazers were stationed in Hawaii in the early 1930s provide a glimpse into the military activities and civilian life in this American territory in the pre-World War II era. The arrival and departure of foreign naval ships and luxury liners at Pearl Harbor are noted as well as the description of army activities and recreational opportunities and pursuits.

The experiences of a cadet at Virginia Military Institute in the 1920s are related in the letters of Percy Warner and G. Preston Frazer to their parents. The two brothers discuss such military school concerns as barracks living, drill and ceremonies, classes, examinations and grades, finances, parties and girlfriends.

Among the letters of Warner to Colonel and Mrs. Frazer in the mid-1930s are accounts of life in CCC camps in Ohio and Michigan. These letters describe the forestry work performed by the young men as well as their background.

The letters of G. Preston Frazer, following his call to active army duty in early 1941, describe Second Armored Division maneuvers in Alabama, Louisiana, Texas and, later South Carolina. Frazer’s participation with the Second Armored Division is followed through campaigns North Africa, Sicily, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

Prominent persons mentioned in the correspondence include Barry Goldwater, John Donelson, Andrew Jackson, Lyndon Johnson, John F. Kennedy, Douglas MacArthur, Randal McGavock, Margaret (Bayne) Price and Jordan Stokes.

An examination of the account records of the Percy Warner Corporation, a family owned corporation formed after the death of Percy Warner, a prominent Nashville businessman, reveals how this business suffered during the Great Depression until it was dissolved in the early 1940s.
The clippings in the Frazer collection cover a wide range of interests: news of individual family members, local social and literary organizations, Nashville and Tennessee, Ernie Pyle, Second Armored Division, the Virginia Military Institute, the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and other miscellaneous items.

Sadie (Warner) Frazer’s interest in family history is reflected in extensive notes and genealogical charts on the Cartwright, Cheatham, Erving, Frazer, Grundy, Hill, Jackson, Lewis, Lindsley, McGavock, Murfree, Philips, Smith, Warner, Washington and Williams families. Additional genealogical data may be found in the many obituaries and in some of the family correspondence.

The military records for the Second Armored Division include bills and receipts, citations, combat activities, lists, maps, orders, regulations, reports, training records and other items. Additional military records include personnel files for Colonel George A. Frazer, Major G. Preston Frazer, Lieutenant Mary W. Frazer, and Captain P. Warner Frazer.

The reminiscences of Sadie (Warner) Frazer provide not only information for members of the Warner family but also for family life in general among the upper class in late 19th century Nashville, Tennessee.

School records comprise class assignments, diplomas, progress reports, recommendations, and transcripts for the various Frazer family members. Of particular interest are the Ward Seminary reports for Sadie Warner during 1896-1903.

Other materials included in the collection are annuals – high school and college yearbooks of Stanley Frazer Rose; booklets; cards of various types; certificates; church records; diaries of Mary W. Frazer, Sadie (Warner) Frazer and John Berrien Lindsley; eulogies, particularly of Margaret (Bayne) Price; invitations, most noteworthy from Presidents Coolidge and F.D. Roosevelt; journals (travel) of Mary W. Frazer and her sister Margaret while in Europe in 1938; land records; legal documents, particularly the contract between the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago and G. Preston Frazer for the archaeological expedition to Palestine in 1937; newspapers; notebooks of the individual Frazer family members; photo albums, especially of “Glencliff,” “Renraw,” and “Wessyngton;” photographs; programs, including school commencements; scrapbooks; wills and writings.

The historical value of this collection is threefold. First, the recollection of Sadie (Warner) Frazer should be useful for any local history researcher who is interested in upper class family life in Nashville in the late 19th century. Second, the genealogist who is researching any of the families as cited earlier in this collection. And third, the military student who would like to learn more about the Second Armored Division in the years 1941-1945.
