INTRODUCTION

The Zuinglius Calvin Graves (1816-1902) Papers, 1850-1980, are centered around Dr. Graves, president of Mary Sharp College. There are also materials in the collection on Dr. Graves brother, Dr. J.R. Graves, founder of the college. The papers were a gift of Elizabeth Zerfoss Fryer of Nashville, Tennessee.

The materials in this finding aid measure .42 cubic feet. There are no restrictions on the materials.

Single photocopies of unpublished writings in the Zuinglius Calvin Graves Papers may be made for purposes of scholarly research.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Zuinglius Calvin Graves Papers, containing approximately 102 items, span the period 1850-1980, although it is concentrated in the years of the college’s existence, 1850-1896. The collection is composed of a holiday card, catalogs, clippings, an invitation, correspondence, notes, printed materials, reminiscences, writings, and several miscellaneous items.

The collection is centered on Dr. Zuinglius Calvin Graves president of Mary Sharp College, which was located in Winchester (Franklin County), Tennessee. Mary Sharp College was the first institution for women in the United States whose curriculum made it “equal to and parallel with Brown University and other eastern schools.”

The correspondence of alumna of Mary Sharp College to Lessie Jones Savage consists of reminiscences of college life and particularly of Dr. Z.C. Graves, his teaching and philosophy regarding the formal education of young ladies.

The following books were removed to the Tennessee State Library holdings: All the World in All the Word: The Ideal Teacher; and Dr. Z.C. Graves and The Mary Sharp College, 1850-1896.

The Zuinglius Calvin Graves Papers provide information to scholars’ on early attempts in female higher education in the last half of the nineteenth century in Middle Tennessee.
