This collection was purchased from the collector, Walter King Hoover, Smyrna, Tennessee. The materials in this finding aid measure 1.26 linear feet. There are no restrictions on the materials. Single photocopies of unpublished writings in the Walter King Hoover Collection may be made for purposes of scholarly research.
SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Walter King Hoover Collection containing 290 items spans the years 1810-1949 and is concentrated in the years of the American Civil War, 1861-1865, and consists of accounts, applications, bills of sale, certificates, correspondence, court records, estate papers, military records, photographs, poems, promissory notes, receipts, and a few miscellaneous items.

Among the earliest items are seventeen bills of sale for the purchase and sale of slaves for the years 1810-1857 in Georgia, South Carolina, and Tennessee. Prominent among the purchasers documented in this collection are Jacob Chrisman of Davidson County, Tennessee, Joseph Cannon of Rutherford County, Tennessee, and George and William Thompson of Charleston, South Carolina. Prices paid for these slaves ranged from the fifty dollars paid by Nancy Beall to her father Joseph Chambers for a man named John in Franklin County, Georgia, in 1845 to the one thousand seventy-five dollars paid by A. S. Caldwell to H. C. Chambers for the boy Benny in 1855. In 1848, George Thompson and Son of Charleston, South Carolina, paid James W. Gray, $6,635 for a group of twenty-one slaves.

Correspondence for the years 1860-1912 is concentrated in the years of the American Civil War and includes letters by soldiers in both the Confederate and Union armies. Prominent among the Confederate correspondents is Major Henry Connor MacLaughlin (1833-1870) of Nashville, Tennessee, who enlisted in the Confederate service with the Vicksburg Light Artillery Regiment in Mississippi and spent the most of the early months of the war with his regiment laying siege to the Union – held Fort Pickens near Pensacola, Florida. Major MacLaughlin was later captured by Union forces and spent the last months of the war as a prisoner at Camp Chase near Columbus, Ohio. Twenty letters by Major MacLaughlin for the years 1860-1866 are included. In addition to the war time experiences with is regiment MacLaughlin comments on the activities in prewar Memphis; the Arkansas secession convention in Little Rock; Nashville after the war and his work with the Union and American. Seven letters by James A. Hall, quartermaster of the 24th Alabama Infantry, are included for the years 1862-1864 and describes regimental activities near Murfreesboro, Tennessee, during the Atlanta campaign. Five letters by Thomas B. Hall, a Montgomery, Alabama resident, and a member of one of the regiments attached to Bragg’s Army of Tennessee, describe campaigns of the army in Mississippi, Tennessee, and Kentucky in 1862. Twelve letters for 1864-1865 by Major D. H. C. Spence, District Commissary of Subsistence for West Tennessee, are also included and are concerned with supplies for Confederate armies under Forest and Hood.

Included in correspondence from Union soldiers are 13 letters by James Beard of DeKalb County, New York, a member of the 142nd New York Volunteer Infantry Regiment. Beard’s letters which are undated and for 1862-1864 are from camps in Virginia and from Folly Island near Charleston, South Carolina. Three undated letters by Amos Fisk, a member of Company I, 92nd Illinois Volunteer Infantry Regiment, describe activities in Middle Tennessee. The letters by Charles W. Sayer, 142nd New York
Infantry Regiment, describe his recovery from illness or battle wounds in army hospitals in Virginia and regimental activities in South Carolina near Charleston in 1862-1864. Union army activities in Virginia are described in nine letters by Henry F. Sayer, 44th New York Infantry Regiment, in 1864-1865. Henry Sizeland’s three letters in 1864 describe activities of his regiment, the 20th New York Cavalry in Virginia. Three letters by James Whiteford of the 106th New York Infantry Regiment, give an account of the campaigns near North Mountain and Petersburg, Virginia in 1863-1864.

Military records consist of certificates of appointment; discharges; enlistment notices; forage statements; hospital records; orders; ordinance invoices; parole; passes; permits; quartermaster accounts; receipts; and reports. Hospital reports are for members of Company A, 7th Rhode Island Volunteer Infantry Regiment for the years 1863-1865. Quartermaster records are for Company B, 22nd Virginia Infantry Battalion, C. S. A., 1862; 4th Rhode Island Volunteer Infantry, U. S. A., 1865; and Company A, 7th Rhode Island Volunteer Infantry, 1863-1865.

Other items in the collection include an obituary for General Joseph B. Palmer, CSA, 1825-1890; a photograph of Major Henry C. MacLaughlin, C.S.A.; and lyrics to “The Girl I Left Behind Me” by B. L. Ridley.
